Carrie Chapman Catt
Founder of the League of Women Voters

``a mighty political experiment''--``an anomaly, we will be a semi-political body--we want political things;
we want legislation; we are going to educate for citizenship
. . . we have got to be nonpartisan and all-partisan.''

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR:

Dear Reader,

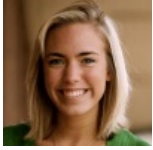

I hope you enjoyed the new edition of our beloved newsletter, VOTER. After 14 faithful years, our former editor, Margie Marshall, has passed the torch. Margie greeted me with optimism and a wealth of knowledge. These are qualities that I have come to recognize in LWVCC members.

I first learned about the League at a membership luncheon in March 2018. Immediately, I was impressed by the League's long history of non-partisan education and advocacy. February 2020 will mark the League's centennial.

One cannot deny that LWV has been and continues to be a powerhouse for productive change. Six months before the ratification of the 19th amendment, LWV founder Carrie Chapman Catt asked if women were "big enough to see their opportunity?" Today their impact is bigger than they could have ever dreamed of.

Thank you for seizing your opportunity alongside the League of Women Voters.
